Water worlds

- Saturn's moon Enceladus and Jupiter's moon Europa are still interesting as candidates that may support life, because scientists have spotted water plumes bursting from their icy shells.
- NASA guesses that more than many exoplanets could be 'water worlds'.
- This includes some members of the Trappist-1 system which is 40 light years away.